Video chats to link NYC high schoolers

Police. Students will meet online, talk about recent police events to break ethnic barriers.

When Brooklyn Borough President Eric Adams met a student in East New York who said he never talked to a white student before, he knew something had to change.

On a recent visit to Brooklyn's Magen David Yeshiva High School, Adams saw local students video chatting with students from China, where he witnessed the similarities despite both the language and cultural differences.

"It dawned on me that we're using technology to speak across the globe," Adams said, "but the reality is that we're not speaking to each other in our same borough and in our same city and in our same country."

Now, students across Brooklyn will be able to interact with other New York City students they might not otherwise get to know, in a series of Google Hangouts set to start on Jan. 20.

Adams and civil rights attorney Norman Siegel announced the series of talks Sunday. They want to see students of different backgrounds come together and talk about recent police protests, the deaths of Detectives Wenjian Liu and Rafael Ramos and Eric Garner's death on Staten Island last summer.

"We are living in silos, and those silos, I believe, are directly connected to some of the problems we're having with our police-community relations," said Adams.

Roy Richter, president of the Captains Endowment Association, supports the video chats, Adams said, calling the support "unprecedented" from a union leader.

Adams said off-duty officers are planning to participate in the chats.

Siegel said after the four school chats wrap up in March, results and recommendations will be shared with President Barack Obama and Gov. Andrew Cuomo, who have both appointed task forces on policing and grand jury proceedings.

NYPD slow. Cops told no vacation days until arrests rise

New Yorkers can expect cops to be issuing tickets and making more arrests as Police Commissioner Bill Bratton is reportedly barring cops from taking vacation and sick days until law enforcement is back to normal.

On Friday, Bratton addressed what he called a "slowdown" in police work since Detectives Wenjian Liu and Rafael Ramos were gunned down in Bed-Stuy on Dec. 20.

Arrests were down 66 percent during the last two weeks of 2014, according to the Daily News, and the number of summonses written the week ending Dec. 29 dropped by 94 percent.

The New York Post reported Sunday that officers are being told they can't take vacation or sick time, and might be hit with a transfer, if the number of summonses does not rise.

Bratton said during a Friday press briefing he didn't know what caused the drop in policing.

Patrolmen's Benevolent Association President Patrick Lynch was recorded in December apparently calling for a slowdown by cops, saying "we will use extreme discretion in every encounter."

"That's 30-some-odd-thousand officers; their motivations might be different for different ones," Bratton said Friday. "The unions have given me what they believe to be the cause. And I'm making no statement about what the cause might have been."

Bratton also said he didn't believe the unions were encouraging the stoppage.

Icy rain for today's commute

Early morning freezing rain and snow in the New York City area is expected to change to rain after 10 a.m., National Weather Service meteorologist David Stark said Sunday.

Travelers should watch out for icy roads in the morning, as temperatures rise to the upper 30s by afternoon.

Trash collection and alternate-side parking remain in effect.

Not much precipitation is expected the rest of the workweek, Stark said. Temperatures on Tuesday and Wednesday will linger around the lower 30s, with overnight temperatures in the teens and low 20s.

Thursday could see a high in the upper 30s, and Friday's high will dip back to the low 30s. METRO

Municipal ID debuts today

"Those who are undocumented, or for folks who have been in other ways left out in our society, the municipal ID card represents a ticket out of the shadows," Mayor Bill de Blasio said in July.

The card, which debuts Monday, will be available to all New Yorkers, including immigrants, the homeless and elderly who otherwise have difficulty accessing city services or avoiding arrest.

The card will be recognized by police and any social service agency operated by the city. The city also hopes to incentivize sign-ups with a year-long membership to 33 local cultural institutions including the Bronx Zoo and Lincoln Center.

Applicants for the new card have to complete an IDNYC application online or at any of the 12 IDNYC Enrollment Centers citywide. METRO

Chokehold. IG: NYPD penalties 'erratic'

The NYPD's enforcement of a ban on officers using chokeholds is "erratic," according to a report released Monday by the police department's newly created inspector general.

The report said the NYPD's disciplinary process is "complex, multitiered and often delivers inconsistent results."

Of 10 police chokeholds substantiated by the Civilian Complaint Review Board from 2009 to 2014, only one officer was disciplined, losing five vacation days.

Others were sent for more training or had no disciplinary action taken against. Chokeholds have been banned since 1993.

Despite efforts by some City Council members, chokeholds have not been made illegal.

The report did not look at the alleged chokehold death of Staten Island man Eric Garner in July. CHESTER JESUS SORIA

Downgrades

The NYPD downgraded recommendations by the CCRB to lesser or no penalties in six of the seven cases before 2014.

- Then-Commissioner Ray Kelly rejected CCRB's disciplinary recommendations in six of the 10 cases studied, imposing a less severe or no penalty.

Obama to hold global security summit next month: Holder

A police officer reacts as he is escorted from the scene following the hostage situation at Port de Vincennes on Jan. 9 in Paris. / GETTY IMAGES

Terrorism. The gathering of justice and interior chiefs came as France mourned 17 victims of Islamist gunmen.

President Barack Obama will invite allies to a Feb. 18 security summit in Washington to try and prevent violent extremism, Attorney General Eric Holder said on Sunday after meeting his European counterparts in Paris.

"We will bring together all of our allies to discuss ways in which we can counteract this violent extremism that exists around the world," Holder told reporters.

French Interior Minister Bernard Cazeneuve said after the meeting that European interior ministers had agreed to boost cooperation in an effort to thwart further jihadist attacks.

Holder said Europe needed urgent progress in establishing a European Passenger Name Record database, which would facilitate the exchange of data about passengers between member states.

"We are convinced of the need for such a tool, to follow those who travel to terrorist operating theaters or who return from there," he said, adding that this database would also be useful in the fight against other serious crimes.

Cazeneuve said the Internet needs to remain a space for free expression, but that Europe should fight against abusive use of the Web to spread hate speech, anti-Semitic messages and the recruiting of vulnerable young people for violence.

Iran says it will examine with US ways to speed up nuclear talks

Iran and the United States will explore ways to give impetus to nuclear talks when their chief diplomats meet in Geneva on Wednesday, Iranian Foreign Minister Mohammad Javad Zarif said on Sunday.

Lower-level negotiators on both sides will meet at the same venue on Thursday to iron out technical details ahead of negotiations on Jan. 18 between Iran and the six powers grouped under "P5+1" — the United States, France, Germany, Russia, China and Britain.

Speaking at a Tehran news conference, Zarif said

Standoff

12

Zarif and John Kerry will confer ahead of a fresh round of negotiations between Iran and six world powers on settling their 12-year standoff over Tehran's nuclear ambitions.

the purpose of the talks with John Kerry "is to see if we can speed up and push the negotiations forward."

"We will see how useful it will turn out. We are constantly gauging the benefits," he told reporters, referring to recent dialogue with the United States after decades of hostility dating back to Iran's 1979 Islamic revolution.

Zarif said Iran-U.S. talks "will remain confined to the margins of the nuclear negotiations." REUTERS

NYC students can see 'Selma' for free

Film. A new fund is created to provide thousands of free tickets.

Thanks to new partnership between a group of prominent African-American community leaders and Paramount Pictures, thousands of New York City students now have the chance to see the new film "Selma" free of charge. Director Ava DuVernay's critically acclaimed film depicts a pivotal moment in the Civil Rights Movement and opened nationwide on Friday. The film studio announced on Thursday that it was partnering with the group (which includes Xerox CEO Ursula Burns and lawyer Vernon Jordan) to provide tickets to thousands of New York City seventh, eighth and ninth graders.

"Martin Luther King Jr.'s momentous journey in Alabama is an important piece of American history," said Bill Lewis, the co-chairman of investment banking at Lazard — and one of the contributors to the fund — in a statement. "We are passionate about bringing this story to New York City's students."

The free screenings began last week and will run through Monday, Jan. 19, which, fittingly, is Martin Luther King Jr. Day.

Starring David Oyelowo as Martin Luther King Jr., the film is set over the course of three months in 1965 as King and other civil rights activists worked to secure equal voting rights for all American citizens, often facing violent opposition in the process. The cast includes Oprah Winfrey, Tom Wilkinson and Carmen Ejogo.

Paramount CEO Brad Grey said in a statement that the studio was "honored" to give students the chance to see the movie.

Beyond the classroom. Take the time get to know your professors

Office hours — the time each professor sets aside to meet with students each week — are the perfect time to get to know your instructors and to get the extra academic help you need, straight from the source. Here are three things every student should be doing in the first few weeks of classes.

Say hello

It's simple, but important to pop in during office hours simply to introduce yourself, especially if it's a large lecture class. Your visit doesn't have to be long, but it's nice to stop by to say hello and perhaps mention what inspired you to take the class. Are you taking biology because you are interested in pre-med or going into nursing? Your instructor may appreciate knowing this.

Getting a little one-on-one attention never hurt anyone. / HEMERA

Ask for help

If you know from past experience that you might have trouble in certain classes, it's best to talk to your professors well before that first exam. Professors usually notice when it's clear that a student is trying his or her best. Plus, getting some one-on-one instruction each week has its own benefits.

Plan ahead

You don't want to get close to graduation and then realize that none of your professors know you well enough to write a letter of recommendation. Take some time to chat with your instructors about your career plans and aspirations now so you won't seem self-serving doing so later. LAKSHMI GANDHI

The “Candid” Embarrassing That Might Solve Your Vital Information All Knee Arthritis Sufferers

By Matt Edgar-Health Writer
Manhattan - In just a moment I'm going to tell you about a very “candid” and somewhat embarrassing moment I had with a doctor.

A moment most doctors would not want you to know about.

As I reveal what happened in that moment - it will become clear to you not only why this doctor has so much success treating knee arthritis pain... but you will also discover a possible way to relieve some or all of your pain, too.

But before I tell you all that - let me ask you this: How would you like to finally have a real medical solution for your knee arthritis pain?

Not some scam sold on an infomercial or the internet. A real medical treatment that has already worked for countless people just like you and is covered by most insurance and medicare?

Can you imagine what it would feel like to be able to eliminate enough of your pain and stiffness so you can get out of bed without pain and go for walks and even do things like play golf or tennis?

How relieved would you be if you felt so much better that you no longer needed to go through total knee replacement surgery and all the grueling rehabilitation?

Sounds Too Good To Be True?

I'm glad we agree. It does sound too good to be true. That's because all patients react differently and get different results from real medical treatments.

That's also why no ethical doctor would promise or guarantee ANY results... for ANY treatment. EVER.

In fact - if you do start hearing over-the-top, exaggerated claims like: “cure for knee arthritis” or “eliminates all pain” or “works for everyone” you should run like heck.

But the fact of the matter is: If you qualify for the treatment you are about to discover, there is a good chance you may be able to relieve some or much of your pain.

I know because thousands of knee arthritis sufferers... just like you... have already found the relief you are looking for.

And even better - this might work for you if your pain is new... or if you have advanced knee arthritis that has made it difficult to even walk.

Here's The Treatment And The Embarrassing Moment

The treatment is called viscosupplementation. If you have not heard of this treatment - I will explain how it might help you in just a moment. If you have heard of it - or even had this treatment without good results - this information is a “must read.”

Here is why: When you have arthritis, one of the things that happens is the lubricating fluid in your joints decreases. This causes joint surfaces to rub, then grind against each other which causes swelling and pain eventually eating way at the cartilage.

Researchers have developed a natural lubricating gel that can be placed in the arthritic knee joint - this cushions and coats the joint allowing it to glide more smoothly which often decreases pain. Sometimes dramatically. Treatment with this special lubricating gel is called Viscosupplementation.

Advanced Knee Arthritis Treatment Offers New Hope For Pain Sufferers In New York City

Nothing Spreads The Word Like Caring Doctors and Results - Knee arthritis sufferers have swarmed the OsteoRelief Center in Manhattan, NYC and Northern New Jersey ever since word got out of their advanced medical procedure for knee arthritis

This all sounds great - in theory. But there is a BIG problem with this treatment.

Allow Me To Explain...

While doing research on this treatment, I traveled to a medical clinic in Northern N.J. right outside NYC (they now have clinics in mid town and downtown).. This clinic had an excellent reputation and I got to speak not only with doctors but with several patients who ranted and raved about the results.

Many said they had tried countless other treatments in the past... including viscosupplementation... but nothing worked until they had viscosupplementation at this clinic.

I was skeptical, so I asked one of the doctors why. How could it be possible that the same treatment that did not work when done elsewhere... was getting results when done here?

His response was honest and a little shocking. And the bottom line was...

“All Doctors Are Human And Sometimes They Mess Up”

I discovered that this treatment must be VERY PRECISE. In other words, the doctor must be very accurate and actually get the lubricating fluid precisely into the arthritic joint space - or the treatment will be rendered useless.

Many doctors do not want to admit it - but it is very easy to miss the joint space and alter the treatment results.

In fact, research shows that doctors doing these types of joint procedures without advanced imaging may miss the joint space as much as 30% of the time.

Technology To The Rescue

Thankfully technology is solving this problem. How? It's making doctors much more accurate and this treatment much more effective.

Advanced imaging is now available that allows doctors to actually see directly into the joint space and watch the treatment. Doctors can see, or check, if the lubricating fluid goes directly into the joint space - or misses.

The doctor knows if the applied treatment has been a success... or failure... INSTANTLY.

Moment I Had With A Doctor Knee Arthritis Pain

Should Know... That Might Be Keeping You In Pain

Here's something incredible: I was able to watch many procedures actually being performed and I was shocked at how many times the doctor thought he had perfect placement... but the imaging proved him wrong.

I was amazed how only a fraction of an inch would make the difference between success and failure.

The best thing is: When the procedure was not perfect - because of the imaging - the doctor knew instantly and was able to make the slight change necessary and achieve the results they were looking for hitting the targeted painful knee joint.

"Double Confirmation" For Best Results

That's why the doctors at this clinic have taken it one giant step further to give their patients the best. They do not just use one form of confirmation during treatment - they use two in their "double confirmation" process. This is to ensure patients get the best possible results.

It became clear to me that using this advanced imaging and "double confirmation" process just might be why the doctors at this medical clinic get results when others were not.

What Results Can Be Expected?

Like all medical treatments, the results vary and can not be predicted. But many knee arthritis sufferers get dramatic results. It is not uncommon for patients to either postpone knee replacement surgery for years... or even permanently cancel it.

Who Is This For?

This treatment is not for everyone - but if you qualify you may be able to relieve some or all of your pain. That's why OsteoRelief has a an innovation for you...

Your Invitation

OsteoRelief Centers offer a limited number of complimentary knee arthritis treatment screenings every month. These screenings are a way for knee arthritis sufferers to get some of their questions answered and see if they are a candidate for one of the cutting-edge treatments offered at OsteoRelief Center. If you would like a complimentary screening, just call 800-227- KNEE and tell the scheduling expert who answers the phone, "I would like a complimentary knee arthritis screening."

The screenings fill up fast every month. If you do not call in time to get one this month, the expert will schedule you for next month.

This screening is no cost and there is no further obligation. The best thing about this screening for so many is being able to breathe a big sigh of relief because you finally have hope to relieve your pain and get your life back

Many of the treatments offered at OsteoRelief Institute are covered by many insurance plans and Medicare.

FILM 18

Ethan Hawke compares 'Predestination' to 'Boyhood'

Interview. The actor tells us he loves jumping between art films and brainy genre fare.

be like a good Zen koan: it sends you thinking.

You've tended to do a lot more genre films recently than you once did, like "The Purge." But they tend to actually be about something.

I keep trying to make art films and also make thought-provoking genre films. It turns me on about acting to work inside different genres. There's certain kinds of challenges that actors love. "I'll play a person who has a lisp from Ireland in 1911!" Or there's shape-shifting personalities that a lot of great actors — Forest Whitaker, Vincent D'Onofrio, Philip Seymour Hoffman, Daniel Day-Lewis — do. But I've never excelled at that. One of the things I like doing is being inside different kinds of cinema. That's helped me be different.

One could make the case that some of the ideas here are ones touched on "Boyhood."

It's really funny to me: "Boyhood" premiered at Sundance and a couple weeks later, "Predestination" and "Boyhood" both showed up at South by Southwest. I really did feel I had two time-travel movies at the same time. You really could make a case that the whole "Before" trilogy and "Boyhood" are time-travel movies too. You're visiting yourself at different times, which is what all of these movies are about — one in a very uber-sci-fi way. It's something we all long to do. The future scares us so much and we romanticize the past so much that it creates a cool energy.

The movie version of Ethan Hawke has many faces: the blank-slate youngster ("Dead Poets Society"), the Gen-X snark machine ("Reality Bites") and the out-of-control rogue ("Brooklyn's Finest"), to name a few. The one you meet in person is closest to the one in Richard Linklater movies: friendly, prone to laughter and, most of all, talkative. He's doing press for "Predestination," an Australian sci-fi thriller in which he plays a time-traveling agent. Conversation predictably roams. It's almost like being in a Linklater chat-a-thon, only instead of strolling through a picturesque city we're trapped in an anonymous, fluorescent-lit office, sitting next to an empty desk.

This is a thriller, but one with a lot of heady ideas sifting through it.

I think about "Predestination" the way I think about "The Sirens of Titan" or Philip K. Dick or Ray Bradbury. When someone can use science fiction to make you think, it's a neat trick. If you embark on a philosophical discussion, people start to yawn and get uncomfortable. They feel like they're in college in a way they don't like, because it can be pretentious. But when you do it with science fiction, you can provoke thought in a really fun way. That's what I like about this movie. I knew when I read the script that, if we do this without screwing it up, it would

Getting old

Time passing

"Boyhood" began shooting in 2002, and Hawke said they were all shocked by how little the look of the world changed over 12 years. "If you had done a movie from '58 to '70, the look of the world was a lot different. The way people dressed, the way cars looked, the energy of the environment was a lot different. But 'Boyhood' looks basically the same," he says. "I think that's because the biggest movement for us has been technology. The way you dress and the way I look, we wouldn't look out of place 12 years ago. It's the phones, the computer, the Internet. So much of our energy has been diving toward the Internet. We haven't had the need for culture to change in other ways."

Blake Lively's having fun with the baby news

So maybe the real reason Blake Lively held off on announcing the birth of her daughter for a couple of weeks was so that she could punk her friends. When asked about Lively's big news, her "Sisterhood of the Traveling Pants" co-star Amber Tamblyn responds with a measured, "That bitch! She tricked me," according to People magazine. Tamblyn recently visited Lively's home totally unaware that the nursery was now occupied. "I went up there and I didn't know. Everybody knew but me, and she does that s— to me," Tamblyn explains. "She was like, 'You've got to come see my new wallpaper.' And I went up there, and there was her baby."

Bill Cosby lets rape protesters 'have their say'

"Whatever happens here tonight, if there's some sort of outburst we just need to keep calm and it doesn't have to last that long."
GETTY IMAGES

You may be not at all surprised to learn that Bill Cosby's recent run of shows in Canada did not end without incident. At the final performance in Hamilton, Ontario Friday night, protesters staged a 30-person walk-out during the performance chanting, "We believe the women," according to the Hollywood Reporter. One even reportedly shouted, "You're a piece of s—, you rapist." While the protesters were met with a security escort and chants of "We believe the men" and "We love you, Bill" in response, Cosby himself pleaded for calm, urging, "Stop, let them have their say."

Earlier, Cosby had warned about a possible outburst with, "Whatever happens here tonight, if there's some sort of outburst we just need to keep calm and it doesn't have to last that long." He probably could've phrased that better.

Yeah, about those 'un-retouched' Justin Bieber pics

So those supposedly original photos from Justin Bieber's Calvin Klein photo shoot showing a much skinnier and less well-endowed Biebs that hit the Internet late last week? Totally fake. Maybe the fact that they were leaked to a Web site you've never heard of before should've been a clue. Or maybe a closer look at Bieber's crotch — and again, I'm really sorry I have to keep suggesting you do that — would have clearly shown that the "un-retouched" photos were actually more Photoshopped than the official versions. That Web site, Breatheheavy.com, by the way, removed the image, saying it had received a cease and desist letter. Bieber's camp insists the final image is 100 percent Bieber's Canadian bacon.

MEET YOUR GOALS WITH A FIRM BUT GENTLE PUSH

Give credit

Recognize small accomplishments

Give yourself mental gold stars for the baby steps you make toward achieving your greater goals.

Being kind to yourself gives you the freedom to grow into who you want to be. / ALL PHOTOS ISTOCK

An ambitious, go-getter client of mine often berates herself when she doesn't achieve all her goals for the week, even when she encounters setbacks beyond her control. Although I counsel her to be kind to herself, she worries that cutting herself slack is just an excuse for not doing enough.

It's an understandable concern, especially in the new year, when people feel a need to make big changes in the areas of their life where they feel dissatisfied — perhaps their diet, work, relationships or living situation. Yet, while some believe that mental self-flagella-

That's why every new year's aspiration should be accompanied by a resolution to be gentler with ourselves, especially when progress doesn't happen on our timetable. The question is, how do we discipline ourselves without becoming our own worst enemies? And how can we be kind to ourselves without lapsing into complacency?

The key is to become a firm but loving parent... to yourself. Try these good parenting techniques that strike a balance between discipline and compassion.

Letters to the editor

Pen more polite than the sword

Re: 'Be considerate in polite society' (Metro, Jan. 9-11) New ideas and intellectual growth are impossible without questioning and contradicting deeply held beliefs. Just whose sacred beliefs would he have us hold as sacrosanct? Those of white supremacists? Jihadists? Members of the Flat Earth Society? No, Lewis, the function of art is not just to decorate; it helps to gain new perspectives. Furthermore, I can think of a no more "polite" way of disagreeing with someone's beliefs than with a pencil and a piece of paper. Je suis Charlie. MANDA HEGARDT, VIA EMAIL message is misdirected. The only ones making a mockery of "sacred beliefs" are those who use those beliefs to attack and murder journalists in their offices, or behead captives and post it on YouTube, or assassinate doctors and bomb medical clinics. Walsh is correct when he says there are limits to what any society, "polite" or otherwise, can and should tolerate; the casual use of religion to murder and terrorize is definitely at the top of that list, while artistic mockery of the same should be at the bottom, not vice versa as Walsh would have it.

NFL gets star loaded slate for title games

NFL. Seattle will host Green Bay while Indy will be at New England.

A fantastic weekend of football was capped off by two spectacular divisional games Sunday. With the title game matchups set here's a look at how the final two teams in the final four clinched their spots:

Packers 26, Cowboys 21

Perhaps justice was served to the Cowboys, who seemed to convert on a key fourth-down pass to Dez Bryant near the goalline late. Needing to score to reclaim the lead, Dallas was on the wrong end of an overturned call on a pass

Blowout boy

Tom Brady and Andrew Luck will square off this Sunday (6:40 p.m., CBS):

- Luck's Colts have been blown out by the Pats three straight times by scores of 42-20, 43-22 and 59-24.

TOM BRADY

(last week they were the beneficiaries of one) causing a turnover on downs. Aaron Rodgers had a slow start but threw two second-half touchdown passes to overcome an eight-point deficit.

Colts 24, Broncos 13

Indianapolis built an 11-point lead that it carried into the fourth quarter before Peyton Manning helped the Broncos add a field goal to make it a one-possession game. But Manning's accuracy was nowhere to be found (he went just 26 for 46 for 211 yards) and No. 18 suffered his ninth postseason "one-and-done."

Patriots formation 'legal'

Baltimore head coach John Harbaugh says there was "clear deception" when it came to formations the Patriots were using in the third quarter of Saturday's 35-31 New England win. The NFL told the Baltimore Sun that "everything was legal from a formation standpoint."

NFL. Jets expected to finalize deal with Maccagnan to take over as GM

One down, one to go as the New York Jets are close to making a hire.

Metro New York has learned that the Jets are expected to finalize a deal within the next day or two to make Mike Maccagnan their new general manager. A league source tells Metro that Maccagnan has impressed the consulting partnership of Charlie Casserly and Ron Wolf, who have been brought on board by owner Woody Johnson to navigate this hire.

Johnson and Maccagnan enjoyed dinner on Friday night, with a source calling it a "home run" meeting between the Houston Texans scouting director and Johnson.

"He is clear and succinct," the source said. "Johnson likes him and his direction and vision. There is a clear comfort level there between the two."

According to the source, Maccagnan's name is one of those that came from the NFL's Career Development Advisory Panel. Casserly and Wolf both sit on that panel, which meets monthly in New York and gathers the names of prospective candidates for both general manager and coaching vacancies.

His background in player evaluation and development is what stood out from the multiple meetings he's had with the Jets.

The source said a deal "could be announced shortly." The source also added that the head coach opening "could fall into place after the play-offs are concluded."

Dan Quinn, the defensive coordinator of the Seattle Seahawks and a candidate for the job, would not be able to negotiate a deal until after Seattle has concluded its playoff run.

His representatives are currently in Seattle should anything happen, the source said.

Tavares, Isles are rolling

Jack Capuano stood in front of the assembled media gathered outside the visitor's dressing room at the Prudential Center Friday and espoused a few of his favorite words. He spoke of "character, leadership, accountability amongst the guys," a few minutes after his Islanders topped the Devils, 3-2.

His team has routinely displayed those attributes this season as they've skyrocketed to the upper echelon of the NHL. On this night, in this venue, it was Capuano's captain, John Tavares, who reminded the hockey world why he is the unquestioned franchise cornerstone.

With the Islanders trailing 2-1 with 6:13 left in regulation, Tavares banked a Kyle Okposo rebound off of Devils goaltender Keith Kinkaid from behind the goal line to tie the game 2-2.

Tavares left Newark with two goals and three points as he increased his team-leading numbers in those categories to 19 and 39, respectively.

Following Saturday's 5-2 rout of the Blue Jackets in Columbus, the Islanders lead the Metropolitan Division with 57 points.

The Islanders' 125 goals are fourth most in the NHL, and their 2.98 goals per game is tied for sixth in the league. DENIS GORMAN

REX FLEES ON FOOT, HEADED TO BUFFALO

Welcome to Anchorbar, Rex! Be sure to try our world famous Buffalo toes .... Er, fingers.

Yup, Rex Ryan is taking his fetish for feet and his undeniable ability to keep the New England Patriots' offense in check to upstate New York as he agreed to a five-year deal to become head coach of the Buffalo Bills Sunday.

The way things have played out with Ryan over the course of the past few years has been nothing short of amazing. The big man went a horrid 26-38 as head coach of the Jets in the past four seasons, yet he was somehow the hottest coaching commodity available - outside of Jim Harbaugh - since the Black Monday sackings took place.

This goes to show what can be done if you keep the local media entertained for an extended period of time and what can be done if you built up some level of trust with your players. Literally no one had a bad thing to say about Rex as he walked out the door in New Jersey, so much so that Jets owner Woody Johnson was openly recommending Rex to other teams.

With the news of Rex's hiring in Orchard Park, one Rex-lover to watch going forward is current Pats cornerback Darrelle Revis. Buffalo was interested in Revis when he was on the trading block two years ago and the Bills will have significant cap space this offseason. Of course, it's still unknown what the Patriots are going to do with Revis. While he has given the Pats their best secondary since the Ty Law glory days, he will have a cap figure of $25 million in 2015, and New England probably doesn't think that's "great value" for a non-quarterback.

Jenny jokester

Jenn Sterger, of Brett Favre penis pic fame, was back in the sports news this past week and this time it involved a different famous quarterback with a proclivity for indiscretion.

Sterger, who has recently embarked on a stand-up comedy side-career, says that she wrote the joke that indirectly led to the video of Oregon players singing "No means No!" (to the tune of the Florida State Seminoles tomahawk chop cheer) at FSU quarterback Jameis Winston in last week's Rose Bowl game.

"(I was asked) to write some roast jokes for (a comedy friend) and I said, 'Yeah, sure, I love being mean,' Sterger told Bert Kreischer's podcast. "And I wrote a bunch of jokes, they crushed, and I mean, I ripped both teams to shreds and their respective rivals. I mean, the Gators were destroyed. But the joke that killed the hardest for Oregon, was, 'Hey guys, just have a great time in Hollywood, and remember 'Nooooo means nooooo!'"

Beats by 'Bron

Ohio State and Oregon

meet Monday (8:30 p.m.) for the College Football Playoff National Championship and the suspension of Ducks receiver Darren Carrington is not the only controversy surrounding the game. I mean, would a big NCAA game be without a little scandal?

LeBron James "helped facilitate" the entire Buckeyes roster in obtaining new Beats By Dre headphones ahead of the game.

In case you weren't aware, the hypocritical NCAA doesn't like when its athletes receive gifts.

"The headphones were donated to Ohio State and were distributed within permissible NCAA limitations on awards," an Ohio State spokesperson told ESPN.

Oh. Ok. We're good then.
